BLOODY BATTLE FOUGHT IN CITY OF MEXICO

American Consulate Was in Line of Fire Between Opposing Armies and Several Shells Penetrated the Walls of the Building.

OVER A THOUSAND MEN FALL

Estimated 150 Rebels Killed and 300 Wounded, While Madero's Loss Is Placed at 300 Dead and 500 Wounded---Americans Injured By Stray Bullets---Mexican Capital Terrorized.

Mexico City, Feb. 12.—President Madero's forces were repulsed with heavy loss in attempts to capture the Ciudadela citadel and arsenal, in which General Felix Diaz had fortified himself. Four times General Victoriano Huerta and General Angeles, the Madero commanders, assaulted the Ciudadela and four times they were driven back by the deadly fire of the Diaz machine guns.

There was terrific fighting for 10 hours west and southwest of Alameda, the great city park, the battle centering around the arsenal. The American consulate was in the line of the artillery's fire and half a dozen shells penetrated the walls of the building. Shrapnel fire killed 70 Madero rurales who were in position in front of the consulate. Several Americans whose desire to see the fighting took them to the house-tops were injured.

While neither side gained a decisive victory, the advantage rests with General Diaz, who, attacked on all sides, succeeded in holding his position and in hurling back a greatly superior force. It is impossible at this time to give an accurate estimate of the dead and wounded, but the reports are that the federal troops lost twice as many as Diaz in killed and injured. One estimate has it that 150 of Diaz's troops were killed and about 300 injured, and that Madero's loss was at least 300 killed and 500 wounded.

Diaz Fire Deadly.

General Diaz owes his success to the precision of his artillery and machine gun fire, directed by General Mondragon, Mondragon's guns, which commanded the Avenida Chapultepec, the Calle de General Prima, the Calle de los Arcos de Belem and other main approaches to the citadel, mowed down the columns of General Huerta and General Angeles, and silenced the federal cannon under Colonel Rubio Navarrete, one of the ablest artillerymen of the Mexican army. Numerous buildings to the west and southwest of the Alameda and in the vicinity of the arsenal were injured or completely wrecked by the constant artillery fire.

The city is in an absolute state of terror. Law and order do not exist. At each other's throats, neither Diaz nor Madero can adequately protect the American or other foreign residents. The American colony was swept by the battle, and hundreds of lives were endangered.

The American ambassador, Henry Lane Wilson, and the representatives of other foreign nations have counseled their countrymen to keep off the streets and have organized volunteer guards for the protection of the embassies. Every embassy and the foreign colonies are guarded by forces of heavily-armed volunteers.

The fighting was President Madero's answer to the ultimatum that Senor Colagan delivered from the self-proclaimed provisional president, General Felix Diaz, demanding Madero's resignation.

The following Americans are known to have been wounded: Dr. R. H. McGresson, Lincoln, Neb., finger shot off; Mark Johnson, negro, Madison, Ill., shot in shoulder; Lloyd Osborne, stepson of Robert Louis Stevenson, the author, serious flesh wound in side.

NO AMERICANS KILLED

Ambassador to Mexico So Informs the State Department.

Washington, Feb. 12.—Not a single American has been killed in Mexico since the Diaz coup d'etat, according to dispatches to the state department from Ambassador Wilson. The ambassador stated that reports that Americans have been killed during the fighting in Mexico City Sunday morning were absolutely without confirmation.

Jealous Youth's Deed.

Akron, O., Feb. 12.—Carl Leonard, 28, of Greenville, O., shot and fatally wounded Howard Moore, 20, of Wooster, O., and then fired two bullets into his own breast. Jealousy is the alleged cause.

Explosion Injures Firemen.

Cincinnati, O., Feb. 12.—George Klein and George Whitney, firemen, were seriously injured and a half dozen others were hurt by an explosion of gas while fighting a fire in Cumminsville. The explosion wrecked a two-story frame structure.

Measure Creating a Commission to Conduct a Survey of Efficiency of Public, Normal and Agricultural Schools Goes Through — Governor Cox, Standing For Home Rule, Rejects the Weeds Bill.

Columbus, O., Feb. 12.—Lively debate preceded the passage of the Hoaglin bill, an administration measure, creating a commission of three appointed by the governor, serving without pay, to conduct a survey of public, normal and agricultural schools. The commission is to ascertain with what degree of efficiency the schools are being operated.

The Cooper "white slave" bill was passed by the house. The measure corresponds to the federal "white slave" law, and provides a penalty of not less than three nor more than 20 years in the penitentiary and a fine not to exceed $1,000. One of the features is a still penalty provided for officers of the law who fail to enforce it. The measure will be more easily enforced than the existing law, since it will not be necessary to prove that a girl was forced into traffic against her will.

Other bills passed in the house were the Boggs measure to regulate the manufacture and sale of insecticides and fungicides; the Haas bill, permitting fraternal benefit societies that limit their membership to any one hazardous occupation to accept members into their organization as old as 70 years, instead of 60, and the senate bill, providing for separate ballots for presidential electors.

AMONG the most militant of the English suffragettes who figured in the latest "uprising" in London was Mrs. Despard, sister of England's famous cavalry commander, Sir John French, who recently visited America. Well advanced in years, she has hurled stones, set fire to letter box mail and shouted defiance to the police with the youngest of the ardent "votes for women" champions. She was snapped, as shown above, exhorting a street crowd to fight for the ballot for women. She has been jailed often and likes it. Her enemies call her a fanatic; her friends a martyr.

Six West Virginia Legislators Held on Bribery Charges.

Charleston, W. Va., Feb. 12.—Charged with having received large bribes to vote for Colonel William S. Edwards for United States senator, five members of the house of delegates and one senator were arrested by G. S. Bentley of the Burns detective agency, who acted as an agent of Colonel Edwards.

Bentley paid $20,000 to the five men and then took them one at a time into another room and turned them over to Prosecuting Attorney T. C. Townsend. Sheriff Bonnerhill and a number of deputies.

A dictagraph played an important part in the trap that caused the arrest of the five Republican legislators. The men are Senator Ben A. Smith of Roane county, Delegate S. U. G. Rhodes of Mingo county, Delegate Ralph Duff of Jackson county, Delegate T. J. Asbury of Putnam county and Delegate L. E. Hill of Mason county.

Delegate Rhodes placed the name of Isaac T. Mann for United States senator before the joint assembly, but he voted for Colonel Edwards. In doing so he stated that he believed Colonel Mann's chances were no longer good and therefore voted for Colonel Edwards.

It has been common gossip that Rhodes was holding a bunch of votes and expected a large price for them. When arrested, Rhodes, who engineered the deal, had $10,000 in marked bills in his pockets. Smith, Duff, Asbury and Hill each had $1,000 in decoy money.

Each of the accused legislators was given a hearing and held under $5,000 bail by Justice of the Peace Doing.

SUFFRAGET ARMY MOVES

Force of Seventeen Leaves New York For the National Capital.

New York, Feb. 12.—The Washington Lickers struck the trail at the Hudson terminal this morning. Dozens of friends accompanied them to Newark, where the yellow wagon in which General Rosalie Jones and Colonel Ida Craft campaigned through Ohio, was waiting to head the march. Miss Elizabeth Freeman will drive Suffragette, the horse that draws the yellow wagon, and distribute literature on the way.

The people along the line of march are preparing to greet the pilgrims. Bells will be rung and delegates will be sent out bearing food and invitations.

The real start will be made at Elizabeth, for there, after a picnic lunch, friends and followers will turn back and the army will get down to marching order. With its three new recruits the army numbers 17.

ENGLISH WOMEN VOTE AGAINST EQUAL PAY.

London, Feb. 12.—The plebiscite taken by 12,000 male and 6,900 female schoolteachers over the question of equal pay resulted in an overwhelming majority against the proposal. Curiously enough, most of the women voted against the proposition.

Action On the House Resolution Indefinitely Postponed.

MEN "HIGHER UP" RESPONSIBLE

Democratic Members of the Judiciary Committee Inform Republican Colleagues They Would Defer Action On the Pending Resolutions—The Minority Members Enter a Vigorous but Futile Protest.

Washington, Feb. 12.—At the instance of men "higher up" in the councils of the Democratic party, the house judiciary committee postponed indefinitely action on the pending resolutions fixing the term of president at six years and making ineligible any man who has served in the office. The identity of those who prompted the committee to shelve the one-term resolution has not been disclosed, but gossip is busy with the names of men close to President-elect Wilson and W. J. Bryan. Notwithstanding the informal announcement that this proposed constitutional amendment was tabled because there was no time available at this session to debate it fully, it is alleged that the committee was actuated by political considerations.

The decision followed the framing of a tentative agreement providing for a report on the Clayton sub-resolution, which was drawn in such a way that it would not have erected a bar against the renomination of Governor Wilson, ex-President Roosevelt or Mr. Taft.

It was generally understood that at the meeting of the committee a report would be ordered on the sub-resolution, which provided that the one-term amendment should not take effect until March 4, 1921. Democratic

REQUEST OVERRULED

Court in Bathtub Trust Case Orders Defense to Proceed.

Detroit, Mich., Feb. 12.—Acting for the indicted men in the alleged bathtub trust in Judge Sessions' court, Attorneys Honeyman and Bodman asked for the dismissal of the case against all the defendants, after the government had put on its last witness. The request of counsel for the defense was based on two grounds; first, that the indictment is defective, and second, that the government has not proved its case. The court took the request under consideration and later the request was overruled, and the defense began the introduction of its testimony.

DON'T CROWD, PLEASE! PROBATE COURTS LIMITED IN LOCAL OPTION CASES

Supreme Court Hands Down a Decision Yesterday Which Greatly Curtails the Supposed Power of Probate Courts.

ONLY ON THE INFORMATION OF PROSECUTING ATTORNEY

Can Power of Court Be Invoked.
Prosecutor Is Now the Man
Who Holds Big Gun for Option
Folks.

Columbus, Ohio, Feb. 12.—By decision of the Supreme court yesterday morning, concurred in by all save Judge Maurice A. Donahue, alleged Wood county bootleggers are discharged by reason of a technical defect in the proceedings.

The decision of the Court makes it clear that Probate Courts have no right to try violations of the local option laws unless information is filed by the prosecuting attorney, and that the Probate Courts cannot try on affidavits filed by a citizen.

This means that the supposed right of any citizen to file an affidavit in the Probate Court against supposed violators of the local option laws, does not really exist in the law. It means that the belief that the Probate Court has the same power in "bootlegging cases" in which it is claimed intoxicating liquors are sold or given away contrary to law did not rest on a secure foundation.

The effect of the decision is sweeping and confines the temperance folks to prosecutions before the mayor unless the prosecuting attorney can be prevailed upon to invoke the jurisdiction of the Probate Court.

Deep interest is being manifested in the Bloomingburg Corn Show and Farmers' Institute, and Wednesday morning saw a goodly number in attendance with the number increasing every minute, and tomorrow is expected to witness a much larger attendance.

The work of judging the corn was completed Tuesday evening, and Prof. Livingstone pronounced the 240 exhibits the best he had ever witnessed outside of a state show, and he found some difficulty in placing part of the premiums.

State Speakers Markley and Wagner arrived Wednesday morning for the Institute, and were on hands at the opening. The morning session was one of unusual interest for the first session.

The great display of fine corn has proven an eye-opener to many who have viewed the exhibit in the Masonic building in Bloomingburg, and it has been pronounced the biggest and best exhibit of its kind ever held in this part of the state.

Thursday afternoon at four o'clock the leading exhibits will be sold at public auction, together with the lumber used in constructing the tables. The Eastern Star lodge will serve dinner and supper in the new banquet hall of the Temple Thursday.

DANGER FROM PNEUMONIA.

Lessened By Healthy Conditions...

At this season pneumonia is prevalent in many localities. Every year during the cold, damp weather this dread disease claims its victims by the hundreds.

The best possible preventive of pneumonia is to keep the system in a strong healthy condition and not allow one's vital resistance to become lowered and if, perchance, the system should become run-down or a chronic cough or cold develop which is hard to cure, take Vinol, our delicious cod liver and iron tonic without oil.

Mrs. Ellen Lytle, of Lima, Ohio, says: "I was weak, nervous and run-down, and pronounced by doctors to have a serious lung trouble. I was despaired of by all, but I read in the newspapers what Vinol had done for others and decided to try it. I took six bottles of Vinol and am now in perfect health and never felt better in my life. I weighed 108 pounds when I began taking Vinol. I weighed last week 140 pounds."

Try Vinol on our guarantee, Blackmer & Tanquary, Druggists, Washington C. H., Ohio.

Supt. William McClain entertained with a handsome six o'clock dinner Tuesday night in honor of Hon. A. F. Sandles, secretary State Board of Agriculture, who lectured at Grace M. E. church in the evening. The dinner was an affair of more than ordinary social pleasure and interest. The additional guests were Mr. B. R. Ryall, State Secretary County Y. M. C. A. work; Rev. Frederick E. Ross, Hon. Humphrey Jones, Dr. Carey Brownell, Prof. O. K. Probasco, Dr. D. H. Rowe, Messrs. Henry Brownell, Ray F. Zaner, B. E. Kelly.

CLUB NEWS

A delightful program, universally pronounced to be one of the best of the year, was given by the Department of Literature, Mrs. Eldora Stinson presiding, at the Browning club Tuesday night.

Miss Beulah Elliott opened with a brilliant piano solo. Mrs. Elizabeth Carpenter, president of the club, gave her own interpretation of the Twenty-third Psalm, very beautifully conceived and much enjoyed by the club.

"Ibsen and His Writings" was the subject of a pleasing paper by Miss Edith Hamm, who treated chiefly of the dramatist's life. His wife is said to be the least known of the helpmate of any genius.

Misses Ruth Reid and Edith Worthington played "Anitra's Dance," Greig, with musical skill for such young pianists and were heartily applauded. Miss Lillian VanKirk made her description of Ibsen's noted play, "The Doll House," very attractive by giving it entirely without notes.

"Peer Gynt" for whom Greig wrote the wonderful "Peer Gynt" music, was finely treated by Mrs. Charlotte Tuttle. "Ase's Death" was interpreted by Mrs. Eldora Stinson in a beautiful piano number.

The club voted to send flowers to Miss Brightie Ogle, as an expression of sympathy for her extended illness.

Cause for Alarm

Loss of appetite or distress after eating—a symptom that should not be disregarded.

It is not what you eat but what you digest and assimilate that does you good. Some of the strongest, healthiest persons are moderate eaters. Nothing will cause more trouble than a disordered stomach, and many people contract serious maladies through disregard or abuse of the stomach.

We urge all who suffer from indigestion, or dyspepsia, to try Rexall Dyspepsia Tablets, with the understanding that we will refund the money paid us without question or formality, if after use you are not perfectly satisfied with results.

We recommend Rexall Dyspepsia Tablets to customers every day, and have yet to hear of one who has not been benefited. We believe them to be without equal. PRESIDENT MADERO'S MISTAKE.

Late news advices from Mexico in reference to the disturbances in the streets of the capital of the nation last Sunday tend very strongly to support the long urged contentions of many people, both in and out of Mexico, that President Madero is honest and brave, but wholly unfit to guide safely the Mexican government.

Madero seems to lack the stern unyielding, almost tyrannical disposition which seems so necessary for one who would rule the Mexican people successfully.

The greatest fault or failing of the present chief executive is that he seems to place too high an estimate on the intelligence and the patriotism of the Mexican people.

He believes that the people of the republic to the south of us are much higher in the educational, industrial and moral scale than they are in reality.

The man who is the immediate cause of his present plight which may prove to be Madero's undoing is none other than Felix Diaz, nephew of the former president, and a strip of a youth just passing his thirtieth milestone.

But a few short weeks ago young Diaz stirred up a fair-sized rebellion at Vera Cruz. His forces were crushed like an egg shell by the government's armies and Diaz taken prisoner.

A regularly conducted court martial trial resulted in a verdict of guilt against Diaz and he was sentenced to death. Madero, out of pure kindness of heart, refused to allow that sentence to be executed. Instead of permitting the execution he delayed it indefinitely and had the young insurgent brought to the Federal prison near the city of Mexico, where he has remained in confinement until last Sunday.

By base treachery to his benefactor who held the life of the prisoner in his hand, Diaz by stealth communicated with the revolutionary forces at the capital and the bloody outbreak of last Sunday was the result. Diaz now heads the victorious revolutionists and Madero is playing the losing game.

It would seem that a life spent among the Mexican people, with the outbreaks in all quarters which have been constant since he assumed the presidency, that the optimistic Madero would learn that the Mexican people must be ruled before they can govern themselves.

Misplaced affection, misplaced confidence and a wholly unjustified high estimate of the abilities and the temperament of the Mexican people may cost a true patriot his life and seems certain to cost him his office.

Madero is not the first good man who has placed too high an estimate on the sincerity and the abilities of his countrymen, but the mistake which he has made has proven more costly to the world in lives and property, and may cost him more dearly than it has any of those who have made like mistakes of judgment.

Study After School Harmful

By Professor WILLIAM WIENER, Educator, of Newark, N. J.

THE municipality, the state and the United States have established eight hours as the legal working day for manual workers. I do not think it right or even humane that we should work young boys and girls five hours at school and then set tasks that take many, MANY HOURS AT HOME. If the common eight hour law applies to the adult man for manual labor I cannot comprehend why it should not be enforced in favor of the growing school child.

UNDER PRESENT CONDITIONS OF LESSON ASSIGNMENT THE CONSCIENTIOUS CHILDREN COME FROM PLAY TO THE EVENING MEAL, HURRIEDLY SWALLOW THAT, AND THEN WORK AT BOOKS UNTIL BEDTIME.

In this way not only do they MENACE THEIR HEALTH, but they lose the association with parents and the necessary appreciation of family relations and interests. To this is, in my judgment, partly to be attributed the children's rampant DISRESPECT FOR PARENTS AND ELDERS, who cannot understand or know their offspring because of LACK OF ASSOCIATION.

Man Has Not Improved

By Dr. ALFRED RUSSEL WALLACE, English Scientist

RECENTLY I have been meditating upon the condition of human progress and have taken a general survey of all history from those wonderful new discoveries in Egypt going back seven thousand years to the present day.

I HAVE COME TO THE GENERAL CONCLUSION THAT THERE HAS BEEN NO ADVANCE EITHER IN INTELLECT OR MORALS FROM THE DAYS OF THE EARLIEST EGYPTIANS AND SYRIANS DOWN TO THE KEEL LAYING OF THE LATEST DREADNOUGHT.

Through all those thousands of years MORALS AND INTELLECT HAVE BEEN STATIONARY. There has been, of course, a great accumulation of human knowledge, but for all that we are NO CLEVERER THAN THE ANCIENTS.

If Newton and Darwin had been born in the times of the Egyptians they could not have done more than the Egyptians did. The builders of the pyramids were EVERY WHIT AS GOOD MATHEMATICIANS AS NEWTON.

Poetry For Today

THE WORLD'S ALL RIGHT.

While there are hands stretched out to grip
 Your hand as you go on your way,
 While some one with a smiling lip
 Comes up a cheering word to say,
 While loved ones greet you with a kiss
 And dance about you every night,
 In spite of what few joys you miss
 You ought to think the world's all right.

So long as you can do your share
 And plod along another mile,
 So long as men still deem you fair,
 What matter that your toes revile?
 So long as you can wander back
 Unto your home, where all is bright,
 In spite of what few joys you lack
 You ought to think the world's all right.

There is no doubt that crime exists
 And that vice prospers in its way;
 That brutal men with brawny fists
 Knock down the weaker in the fray,
 But just so long as friends are true
 And loved ones wait for you each night,
 Despite the wrongs that you may view
 You still should think the world's all right.

SPIES BALK U. S. CONSUL IN PERU

Was Sent to Investigate Rubber District Atrocities.

NATIVES DARE NOT TALK.

Practical Slavery Exists, According to Stuart J. Fuller, Acting For Government in Isolated Region—No Organized Ill Treatment, but Agents Are Worst Type of Adventurers.

Washington.—That a system of espionage upon the part of agents of the Peruvian rubber companies rendered practically futile the investigations made by Stuart J. Fuller, United States consul, in the Putumayo rubber districts of Peru last summer will be disclosed when his report to the state department is transmitted to congress.

Before he even entered the Putumayo region Mr. Fuller found himself burdened with the company of representatives of the rubber companies which hold the concessions for gathering the rubber of that region, but as he was traveling on one of the company's steamships he could make no objections to their presence.

Moreover, when the rubber fields were reached Mr. Fuller discovered that every conversation he attempted to hold with the Indians was listened to by men in the pay of the rubber companies. Seeing the company men present, the Indians refused to talk. Consequently Mr. Fuller was unable to obtain the evidence he sought.

Furthermore, not only Mr. Fuller's report, but also other documents being held at the state department for transmission to congress, will show that the Indians, regardless of any atrocities, are being worked by the agents under a system differing very little from slavery. Mr. Fuller's report will show that the rubber of the Putumayo is being gathered in regions where few white men can survive and where none but Indians can successfully gather the rubber; that the risks to life in the jungle are so great that the worst kind of adventurers have become practically the only kind of men the companies can get to act as supervisors; that impelled by the great risks they are taking together with the remoteness from the restraining influences of civilization, these agents have been accustomed to go to almost any lengths to gain greater sums in commissions on the value of the rubber gathered.

Mr. Fuller was last year appointed consul at Iquitos, Peru, for the special purpose of investigating the conditions in the Putumayo. Iquitos is the great inland port of Peru, 2,700 miles up the Amazon river, and it is one of the chief outlets for rubber from the upper Amazon. Though only a few hundred miles from Lima, the capital of Peru, it is in effect, by virtue of the Andes ranges, thousands of miles from the seat of the Peruvian government.

On Aug. 6 Consul Fuller left Iquitos for the Putumayo, accompanied by G. B. Mitchell, British consul at Iquitos.

The investigators got practically no information, as company men followed them throughout their entire journey. They found only two Barbadian negroes left in the Putumayo and were consequently obliged to depend on the natives for information. This course of information was effectually shut off by the espionage maintained by the men. Whenever the consuls spoke to the Indians through an interpreter, of course, they found that a company man was always at their elbow to listen. The men were all well known to the Indians, who, overawed by their taskmasters, were afraid to speak frankly to the consuls.

The conclusion was reached that, while there very probably was not at the moment any serious organized ill treatment of the Indians, the companies had made it impossible for investigators to learn whether atrocities were being practiced or not. Upon their return to Iquitos both men drew up and signed a joint statement setting forth how the company's agents had made practically fruitless their investigations.

Locomotive Firemen Would Avert Strike by Mediation.

New York, Feb. 12.—The threatened strike action of 34,000 firemen on the 54 railroads east of the Mississippi and north of the Ohio was placed in the hands of government officials for them to avert it by mediation, if possible.

Acting under the provisions of the Erdman act President W. S. Carter of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Engineers telegraphed Judge Martin A. Knapp of the commerce court and G. W. W. Hanger, acting commissioner of labor at Washington, requesting them to mediate in the crisis which had arisen between the firemen and the railroads.

Elisha Lee, chairman of the conference committee of railroad managers, announced that the railroads would accept the services of Knapp and Hanger as mediators.

Mr. Carter's telegram came after the close of a stormy meeting between the managers and the firemen. At this meeting Mr. Carter advised the managers that he had been authorized by the votes of 965 firemen out of every 1,000 in the organization to call a strike, should the railroads decline to grant the demands for increased pay and additional firemen on 2,000 large locomotives.

TWO MORE WARSHIPS ORDERED TO MEXICO

Preparations For Armed Movement to Protect Americans.

Washington, Feb. 12.—An important conference relative to the critical situation developing in Mexico was held at the White House. Disturbing dispatches were received announcing that the office of Consul General Arnold V. Shanklin had been shelled and that Mr. Shanklin, with the staff of the consulate, has taken refuge in the American embassy.

The report relates that in the fighting Tuesday more than 1,000 of the combatants have been killed.

As a result of the conference the secretary of the navy ordered two more battleships to Mexico and the secretary of war ordered two transports at Newport News to be put in readiness for an armed movement for the protection of American life in Mexico if a condition of anarchy prevails. The president in a formal statement again declared against intervention.

The White House statement says: "The war department is to hold itself in readiness, but no affirmative action was directed to be taken by the secretary of war, except to put two transports at Newport News in commission. These transports will receive troops if further action is deemed necessary. The purpose is merely to take precautionary steps to protect Americans and foreigners in the City of Mexico should conditions of violence continue and anarchy succeed."

Will Come Through With Cure As Planned

FRIEDMANN COMING TO UNITED STATES

Gives German Government His Remedy For Test Purposes.

Berlin, Feb. 12.—Dr. Friedmann, the discoverer of the alleged tuberculosis serum, returned from Frankfurt-on-the-Main, accompanied by Professor Schleich. On his arrival here Dr. Friedmann announced that he had turned over his remedy to the government experimental bacteriological institute at Frankfurt for test purposes. He personally handed some cultures to Professor Schleich.

Dr. Friedmann announces positively that he will sail for New York on Feb. 18.

The doctor states that his action in giving the German government cultures for test purposes does not place the serum at the disposal of the medical profession, and that tuberculosis patients in Europe whose hopes have been raised by his claims and who can not afford to come to Berlin will have to wait a while longer before they can avail themselves of the relief given by his culture.

Lincoln's Cabinet In 1863

From a wartime photograph.

What Lincoln Was Doing Fifty Years Ago

By JAMES A. EDGERTON.
[Copyright, 1913, by American Press Association.]

FIFTY years ago Abraham Lincoln had reached his Valley Forge—one almost might say his Gethsemane. He was fifty-four years old and had been in the presidency a trifle less than two years. During most of that time the war had been raging. In the west it had been in a measure favorable to the Union, but in the east, where the contest must finally be decided, the result had been rather the reverse. Two disastrous battles had been fought at Bull Run. McClellan's peninsular campaign was in the main a failure. That general had redeemed himself to some extent and had temporarily made brighter the outlook of the north at Antietam, but his continued inaction following the battle had compelled the president to supplant him with Burnside.

On Dec. 13 the disastrous battle at Fredericksburg had been fought, and shortly afterward the president was looking for a new general. On Jan. 22 it became plain that Burnside's second campaign had failed, and a few days later he resigned the command of the Army of the Potomac. Four men were considered for the succession. Reynolds was approached, but said he would not take the command under conditions and restrictions then existing. This narrowed the field to three—Rosecrans, Hooker and Meade. The objection to Rosecrans was that he was a western officer. Secretary of War Stanton violently opposed Hooker, and this opposition was seconded by many prominent army officers. President Lincoln himself had doubts about Hooker's temperament and his ability for an independent command.

At this point politics entered the field. Secretary of the Treasury Chase was already plotting to supplant Lincoln for the Republican presidential nomination in 1864. It has since been discovered that Lincoln knew of Chase's machinations, but in his large hearted magnanimity overlooked them. Whether he knew of them at this time or not is open to question. At any rate, friends of Chase approached Hooker and received from that general assurances that if he were appointed to the command of the Army of the Potomac and won the victory he would not seek the presidency. The Chase partisans at this point brought all the influence possible to bear in favor of Hooker, who was named. Lincoln's letter accompanying the commission is so characteristic that it is given in full:

General—I have placed you at the head of the Army of the Potomac. Of course I have done this upon what appear to me to be sufficient reasons, and yet I think it best for you to know that there are some things in regard to which I am not quite satisfied with you. I believe you to be a brave and skillful soldier, which, of course, I like. I also believe that you do not mix politics with your profession, in which you are right. You have confidence in yourself, which is a valuable if not an indispensable quality. You are ambitious, which within reasonable bounds does good rather than harm. But I think that during your tenure of command of the army you have taken counsel of your ambition and thwarted him as much as you could, in which you did a great wrong to the country and to a most meritorious and honorable brother officer. I have heard, in such a way as to believe it, of your recently saying that both the army and the government needed a dictator. Of course it was not for this, but in spite of it, that I have given you the command. Only those generals who gain successes can set up dictators. What I now ask of you is military success, and I will risk the dictatorship. The government will support you to the utmost of its ability, which is neither more nor less than it has done and will do for all commanders. I much fear that the spirit which you have aided to infuse into the army, of criticising their commander and withholding confidence from him, will now turn upon you. I shall assist you as far as I can to put it down. Neither you nor Napoleon, if he were alive again, could get any good out of an army while such a spirit prevails in it. And now beware of rashness. Beware of rashness, but with energy and sleepless vigilance go forward and give us victories. Yours very truly, A. LINCOLN.

Following the defeat at Fredericksburg there were persistent rumors of wholesale army and cabinet changes. On Dec. 20 this gossip had taken definite form. It was to the effect that Seward was to leave and Greeley to enter the cabinet. Although denial was made the next day, the talk continued. It also included Stanton and Chase, both of whom, it was said, would resign. It was likewise widely rumored that General Halleck would be removed and McClellan recalled to command.

Events at this time were not particularly encouraging in any direction to the Washington government and its harassed head. On Dec. 28 the Confederates raided near Alexandria and cut the wires between Washington and the army, thus increasing the fears of residents of the capital, who were in an almost constant state of alarm for the safety of the city.

Lack of money was also an embarrassment. The government was in pressing need of more than $1,000,000, 000, and early in January the house committee on ways and means proposed the issuance of $600,000,000 in bonds, $300,000,000 in treasury notes and $300,000,000 in legal tender, popularly known as greenbacks. This plan was afterward carried out practically in that form. The financial straits of the government were indicated in a special message of the president on Jan. 19 asking that $100,000,000 be procured for back pay to the troops.

Even the emancipation proclamation, which had been formally issued on Jan. 1, was creating trouble in certain quarters. The freeing of the slaves was Lincoln's greatest act, yet he did it with misgivings. He feared its effect on the border states and on southern Union men in the army and out of it. For a time his fears appeared to be realized, for enlistments fell off, and there were mutterings of discontent affecting even the army. Echoes of what was being said were heard in congress. On Jan. 9 Senator Saulsbury denounced the proclamation in open senate, and on Jan. 21 Senator Harding of Kentucky followed this up by a fierce attack, in which he denounced the proclamation as "disunion doctrine" and an "attack on the constitution."

These were perhaps the darkest days that Lincoln ever knew. The responsibility for the whole war was upon him, and it was almost more than he could bear. He felt he had done right both in dismissing McClellan and in freeing the slaves, and yet he was being fiercely assailed for both. His enemies had a shadow of ground for their strictures in the fact that the Union troops were not winning victories, their claim being that these two acts had undermined the spirit of the army. In a few months all this talk was to be largely silenced by the two momentous Union successes that finally turned the tide in favor of the north, but at this time poor Lincoln knew nothing of Vicksburg and Gettysburg and had to go through his Valley Forge with few rays to lighten the gloom.

HOW ABE LINCOLN GOT RID OF A BORE.

Among other well meaning northern men who bothered Lincoln in 1864 with impracticable plans for ending the war was a kindly, bland and bald old fellow whose flow of conversation was simply maddening to the good natured but busy president. By hook or crook the old fellow managed to get by the sentinels, and Lincoln was too soft hearted to give him peremptory orders to remain away, relates a writer in the Omaha Bee. One afternoon when he had interrupted important business for nearly an hour the president suddenly rose, hurried to a cupboard and drew forth a large bottle.

"Did you ever use this remedy for baldness?" the unwelcome caller was asked.

"Never," he replied, examining the label.

"Well," said Lincoln, with an air of one conferring an especial favor, "you may have it. Here, take the bottle, go home, rub it well into the head and come back, say, in three months and let me know if it did you good."

And he hustled the hairless old chap through the door and bowed him off.

"DOLLARS AND SENSE" LECTURE A GOOD ONE

Hon. A. P. Sandles Holds Large Audience for Two Hours During a Highly Educational and Entertaining Address Along Agricultural Lines--Glee Clubs Furnish Music.

For two solid hours, Hon. A. P. Sandles, secretary of the State Board of Agriculture, held the close attention of a large audience in Grace M. E. church Tuesday night, while he spoke on "Dollars and Sense", delivering one of his usual splendid addresses which was fully appreciated by the audience as manifested by the hearty applause accorded him.

Mr. Sandles was introduced by Hon. Humphrey Jones, a member of the Educational Work committee of the Y. M. C. A., who had previously been introduced by Supt. Wm. McClain, as the "junior member" of the committee.

Mr. Sandles almost immediately placed himself in close touch with the responsive audience by asking a number of pertinent questions to which the audience responded with raised hands and outbursts of merriment.

Then he launched forth into his address by showing how the city and farm were so closely allied that what affected one, also caused some effect upon the other. Some of the many other points he brought out were that it costs 72 cents of every dollar used by the government, for military purposes, while only 1-5 cents of every dollar is devoted to agricultural interests, the latter being "one cent for feed and 40 cents for fight." And 3c of every dollar goes to education, "$1 to shoot brains into a man and $24 to shoot his brains out."

That it costs $2,000,000 per day for war purposes in time of peace. That the price of one battleship would erect and equip two experiment stations in each state in the union, and buy 640 acres of land in each state. That the product of eastern farms--"diplomas and edge tools" cannot take the place of ham and eggs.

He further stated that the armor plate trust and powder trust had Uncle Sam by the throat, and that for running the government, "we pay the freight and they--send us garden seed". The loss from hog cholera is approximately $100,000,000 annually, and the government should take a hand in it, and appeals should be made to congressmen and senators to secure proper appropriations.

He quoted a railroad president who said that at the present rate of increase in consumption and decrease in production in America, in ten years not a single vessel load of food will be exported.

Other facts mentioned were that 60 years ago Ohio produced 16 bushels of wheat per capita, but during the last three years it has been three bushels per capita. In England the production is 38 bushels per acre, Scotland 43, Ireland 38, France 25, Germany 34, China 21, and in Ohio, 14.

France has 45,000 schools teaching agriculture. Belgium has 600 souls to the square mile and U. S. has 30. 141,000 acres in Ohio are worn out. He paid $4 for a porterhouse steak in Boston, and when a barefoot boy he purchased a yoke of calves for the same amount. 90c wheat can be made into pastry selling for 66c per pound. Two eggs on a train cost as much as the farmer receives for a dozen.

Kentucky whiskey selling for 25c per gallon in Kentucky, brings 25c a drink in New York City. A steer brings 5c to 8c on the farm, and $500 when served in a hotel.

He praised the business men of Ohio who paid the way of the "Ohio Corn Boys" last fall, and who are doing much toward promoting agriculture.

He did not forget to pay tribute to Lincoln, and to the housewife, after which he described some events of the Ohio Corn Boys' trip to Washington last fall, and in his interesting and original manner held his audience for nearly one hour as they went with him over the memorable trip.

Several splendid numbers were rendered by the boys' and girls' High School Glee clubs under the direction of Miss Elizabeth Sheen, and each number was greatly enjoyed and heartily applauded. Both clubs furnished splendid entertainment, and are composed of talented students who take deep interest in their work.

After the meeting a committee meeting was held for the purpose of commencing the work of sending 8 or 10 boys from this county to Washington and details will be worked out soon under the auspices of the Y. M. C. A.

Mr. Sandles went to Columbus on the 11:06 train.

OLIVE TABLETS OIL THE BOWELS

A Physician's Substitute for Dangerous Calomel.

When you feel that your liver and bowels need help take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. Substitute for Calomel. Calomel is effective, but dangerous--causing bad after-effects.

Olive Tablets are especially made to take the place of Calomel. Dr. Edwards for years has been Calomel's foe. He saw its dangers and its disadvantages in 17 years' practice, treating patients for all kinds of liver and bowel complaints. In his efforts to do without Calomel he developed his now famous little olive-oil-colored tablets. Olive Tablets are mild but effective. Safe and sure. Pleasant to take but unfailing in results.

Olive Tablets oil the bowels just enough to start Nature's own action, and they tone up the liver at the same time. They are made from a rare combination of vegetable compounds mixed with olive oil.

If you want to regain that feeling of joyous buoyancy and clear thought take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. They work like a vacation. 10 and 25 cents per box.

"Every little Olive Tablet has a movement all its own."

leaders pointed out that this left the way clear for Wilson, Taft and Roosevelt to enter the field in 1916 and removed the political objections that had been urged against the measure.

It was with this understanding that the Republican members attended the meeting of the judiciary committee. They arrived at the committee room prepared to vote for the substitute, but were kept waiting an hour while the Democrats conferred behind closed doors.

Led by Representative Clayton of Alabama, the chairman, the Democrats finally entered the committee room. Much to the astonishment of Republicans, Representative Carlin of Virginia, a Democrat, presented a resolution setting forth that, owing to the state of public business, it would be inadvisable to attempt to adopt the proposed constitutional reform at this session. The Republicans protested, recalling that the committee by a unanimous vote last summer, had gone on record in favor of one term for president. Chairman Clayton declared that the Democrats had decided to defer action, and that was the end of it.

Many Democrats regard Colonel Roosevelt as a big asset to the Democratic party. They do not believe the two Republican factions ever will come together and are confident that in 1916 there will again be three candidates in the field. Under these circumstances they figure that the Democratic candidate couldn't lose.

as granted by the constitutional amendment, and vetoed the "weed bill," which had a stormy voyage through both houses of the general assembly. The measure sought to compel cities and villages to cut weeds and thistles within their bounds.

The senate passed the Hopple measure, which provides that service upon foreign corporations shall be complete if copies are left at their offices or branch offices.

Corner lots, which have given city taxing officials all kinds of trouble for years when it comes to levying special assessments, will hereafter be assessed on both the front and depth if the Herner bill, passed by the senate, is accepted by the house.

The senate also passed the bill introduced by Senator Jung of Hamilton county, prohibiting judges from practicing law or acting in an advisory capacity while they are serving on the bench. The Agler house bill, limiting the time in which bills of exception may be filed in error cases to 90 days, also was passed by the senate. It now awaits the governor's signature.

MISTRIAL RESULTS IN BOND-DEAN CASE

Jurors Hopelessly Divided and Are Discharged By Court.

Columbus, O., Feb. 12.—After 10½ hours' deliberation, the jury in the bribery case of Former Mayor C. A. Bond of Columbus and Former State Senator T. A. Dean of Fremont reported a disagreement. The jury was discharged.

It is probable that the two men will be tried again. The state claims it was prevented from getting before the jury some of its best evidence because it was submitted on rebuttal, instead of before the state rested.

Prosecuting Attorney Turner announced that he would investigate the testimony of A. L. Bauman of Sandusky, chief witness for the defense.

"It shows that it is nothing but a wet and dry fight," Mr. Bond said after the verdict. While displeased that he was not acquitted, he seemed to feel he had been vindicated by the disagreement.

Henry Turkoff, the only city member of the jury and the selected foreman, was ill during a greater part of the deliberation.

They are the best medicine made for all disorders of the kidneys, for bladder irregularities, and for backache and rheumatism. They do not contain habit forming drugs. #### Way Open to Try Cox.

Columbus, O., Feb. 12.—George B. Cox, former Republican political boss in Cincinnati, may be tried on a charge of perjury, in connection with evidence which he gave before the grand jury at Cincinnati seven years ago, when an investigation of the affairs of a bank of which he was president was under inquiry. Though indictments returned against him two years ago were quashed by Judge William L. Dickson, the supreme court ruled they should have been sustained.

County Recorders Protest.

Columbus, O., Feb. 12.—Opposition to the Torrence land system, as embodied in the bill by Reid of Fayette, now on the house calendar for passage, was voiced at a meeting of the county recorders of the state. They opined that while they are the lowest salaried county officials that a new allotment of work is to be turned on them.

Robber Suspect Convicted.

Bowling Green, O., Feb. 12.—After being out only 20 minutes the jury in the case of William Behrenson of Cleveland, charged with complicity in the Munn bank robbery at Portage on Nov. 19, returned a verdict of guilty. Behrenson, with three accomplices, was accused of obtaining almost $4,000 of the bank's funds.

Splendid Ball at Lincoln's Second Inaugural

By WALTON WILLIAMS.

[Copyright, 1913, by American Press Association.]

WHEN Abraham Lincoln was inaugurated the second time the war was drawing to a close. In little more than one month the surrender at Appomattox would end serious resistance on the part of the south. Already it was apparent that the struggle was in its last stages. It was under peculiarly happy auspices, therefore, that the great war president was sworn in for a second term.

March 4, 1865, fell on Saturday. The weather for two or three days had been inclement. Washington was not paved then as it is today, and rain had she did not reach her seat until after the inaugural ceremony was over.

In the parade down the avenue the president sat in the foremost carriage with his secretary. Behind him came the vice president and vice president elect, the cabinet, senators and members of congress and other high dignitaries. The parade took an hour to pass a given point. Washington was filled with military officers and soldiers.

Preceding the president's arrival in the senate chamber Vice President Hamlin had sworn in his successor, Andrew Johnson, who had made a brief address. At this point Mr. Lincoln's tall form appeared, and after he was seated the line was formed leading to the temporary stand erected at the east portico. About this was assembled one of the largest crowds ever seen up to that time in Washington.

President Lincoln's second inaugural was brief, but was perhaps his most finished oration, not excepting that at Gettysburg. His voice carried far out over the crowd. There was, of course, much applause, and all present were visibly touched by the beautiful closing paragraph beginning with the famous words, "With malice toward none, with charity for all."

The oath was administered by Chief

The inaugural ball in the pension building was a great success.

"At an early hour the ballroom was crowded, and before 10 o'clock many persons were retiring from the building, unwilling to endure the jam of the masses.

"The hall is beautifully decorated with national flags. The tables in the Ninth street wing are spread in the most sumptuous manner. The bands are filling the vast building with stirring music, and all goes merrily as a marriage bell.

"Soon after 10 o'clock President Lincoln and lady, accompanied by Senator Sumner and Speaker Colfax, entered the ballroom and, being joined by many distinguished personages, promenaded the room.

"The committee of managers had so perfectly arranged the affair as to secure the most complete harmony in every part of the program. Though nearly 4,000 persons were present, there was not the least confusion either on the floor or in the halls.

"The president, vice president, the cabinet, Generals Halleck and Banks, Admiral Farragut and a large number of civil and military officers were conspicuous on the floor."

filled the streets with mud. Nevertheless great throngs of people began arriving at the capital a week before the great day, and by Wednesday all the hotels and lodging houses were jammed, and the crowd began to overflow into Baltimore, where the hotels also rapidly filled.

The weather on Saturday morning was still threatening, and there was some rain. Despite this fact Pennsylvania avenue was lined with multitudes at an early hour, and persons had sought all sorts of points of vantage to view the parade.

Congress held an all night session to rush through belated legislation. Toward noon, as is the custom on inauguration days, the president was at the capitol signing bills. Therefore a committee of senators was sent for Mrs. Lincoln, but because of the crush

The Trouble With the World.

It was a frequent custom with Lincoln to carry his children on his shoulders. He rarely went down street that he did not have one of his younger boys mounted on his shoulder, while another hung to his coat. Roland Diller, who was a neighbor of Mr. Lincoln, told one of the best of the stories. He was called to the door one day, and there was Mr. Lincoln striding by with the boys, both of whom were wailing aloud. "Why, Mr. Lincoln, what's the matter with the boys?" he asked.

"Just what's the matter with the whole world," Lincoln replied. "I have three walnuts, and each wants two."

LINCOLN ON SECESSION.

Plainly the central idea of secession is the essence of anarchy. A majority held in restraint by constitutional checks and limitations, always changing easily with deliberate changes of popular opinions and sentiments, is the only true sovereign of a free people. Whoever rejects it does, of necessity, fly to anarchy or to despotism. Unanimity is impossible. The rule of a minority, as a permanent arrangement, is wholly inadmissible, so that, rejecting the majority principle, anarchy or despotism in some form is all that is left.—From First Inaugural Address.

Justice Chase, and as the tall form of the president bowed to kiss the Bible the cheers of the multitude broke forth and the guns about the capitol and throughout the city boomed forth the president's salute.

After the long procession had returned to the White House, where it was reviewed by the president, a reception was held at which it was estimated that 15,000 people were entertained.

Aside from the military character of the inauguration, one of the features most commented on was the presence of many negroes, this time as soldiers and citizens instead of chattels.

The inaugural ball was not held till Monday evening, March 6. It occurred, as usual, in the pension building. The New York Tribune of March 7 says of the affair:

AT LINCOLN'S DEATHBED.

The first man of the group to break the silence in the chamber of death after the spirit of Abraham Lincoln had left its tenement of clay to go to the scene made shortly after the event. In the foreground stands President Lincoln greeting a lady, and by his side is Vice President Andrew Johnson, whom a sad tragedy was soon to make president. To the right are seen General Grant, Secretary Stanton, Admiral Farragut, General Banks, General Butler and other distinguished figures. To the left stand Generals McDowell, Halleck and Burnside. Just in front of them and immediately behind the president is Mrs. Lincoln.

There may be at least one historical inaccuracy in the picture, as I can find no contemporary account that General Grant attended the ball, and he was then so conspicuous that his presence would surely have been noted. But the etching is valuable in giving the dress and atmosphere of the period, if for nothing else.

Claffin's Story of Lincoln.

Ex-Governor Claffin was a personal friend of Lincoln and was in close touch with him during the exciting campaign of 1860. He had a rich fund of anecdotes, and his favorite was a story of Lincoln and Douglas.

Douglas, meeting Lincoln, made a characteristically unpleasant remark, saying: "Why, Abe, I remember you when you were nothing but a young clerk peddling out goods at retail and selling liquor over the counter."

"Yes," answered Lincoln; "the only difference between you and me was that I was on one side of the counter and you were on the other."

LINCOLN SAVED THE BUG.

Former Senator William E. Mason of Illinois told a story that illustrates Abraham Lincoln's innate kindness. According to Mason, Lincoln was driving along the road one day when he suddenly stopped the buggy. He saw a beetle on its back, struggling vainly to regain its feet. Lincoln got out of the carriage and turned the bug over. As he re-entered the buggy he said: "Well, I feel better. I have done a good act. I have given that bug an equal show with all the other bugs on the earth."
